

Who's doing your plumbing?

Plumbing Industry Council

*Protecting people, our environment
and the plumbing industry*

Queensland Government

Are you using a licensed plumber or drainer?

Using licensed plumbers and drainers is the simplest and most effective way of ensuring that plumbing work complies with regulations to minimise unnecessary risk to your family's health and safety. Rectifying defective or non-compliant work can be far more expensive than the original cost. As a consumer, using an appropriately qualified plumber or drainer will help to protect you and your family as well as your bank account.

If you want to confirm a person is appropriately licensed, and that their licence is current, please contact the Plumbing Industry Council on: 1800 682 021 / +61 7 3235 4149 or email plumbers@dlgp.qld.gov.au

Plumbing Industry Council

The Plumbing Industry Council (PIC) is the plumbing regulator in Queensland. Its role is to protect public health, safety and the environment by licensing appropriately qualified plumbers and drainers and where necessary disciplining licensees who breach legislative requirements and perform work that fails to comply with technical standards.

Occupational and contractor licences for plumbing

In some instances, it may be necessary for a tradesperson to hold both an occupational and contractor licence to carry out work, regardless of the value. The PIC administers the occupational licensing system for plumbers, drainers and fire sprinkler installers. The Building Services Authority (BSA) administers the contractor licensing system.

To check whether a person holds a BSA licence search online at www.bsa.qld.gov.au or contact the BSA on 1300 272 272 for further information.

*Protecting people, our environment
and the plumbing industry*

